

Mr. Dmitry Aleshkovsky, the founder of the charitable foundation Help Needed, is a well-known public figure and influencer in Russian civil society. The mission of his foundation is the systematic development of socially significant initiatives and charitable projects in Russia and a change of public attitude towards ways of solving of social problems. The main goals of the foundation are to strengthen the nonprofit sector in Russia, to increase the number of charities and non-governmental organizations in order to address the needs of vulnerable segments of the population, and to ensure that all citizens are actively involved in solving social problems.