Terra Nova Test Result Update

Terra Nova Test scores have yet to be released to all participating schools across the country. The standardized testing conducted in March 2017 should have resulted in scores being available to parents by the end of April 2017, however this year it has not been the case. Earlier this year, the Terra Nova Assessment was purchased by a new company, Data Recognition Corporation (DRC) and scores have still not been released.

The Data Recognition Corporation has informed schools that the test results would be delayed due to the transition from one scoring platform to another. DRC apologizes for the holdup and would like to reassure parents that schools are in no way responsible for this delay.

The delay in DRC's release of Terra Nova test scores has affected both Catholic and private schools all over the country. As of today, scores are still unavailable.
