ADDRESSING RACIAL INEQUITIES

In June, we saw much of the nation rally in support of Black lives, a long overdue shift in public resolve to build a racially equitable society. Our Center strives to improve access to quality mental health services for all, and we know that Black Americans in particular endure a unique set of mental health concerns stemming from systemic and overt racist structures. With this in mind, we pledged to improve and increase our training and technical assistance offered in relation to these issues.
