

June Is Here

Dinosaurs are roaming!!

The dinosaurs have arrived and are ready for some summer fun. Room 5 friends have been enjoying studying about dinosaurs and all the learning experiences that they provide. In the Month of May, we discussed all the wonderful things that we know about dinosaurs, as well as, all the words that are associated with the letter D. Room 5 friends came up with some words such as, dance, daddy, dinosaur and dandelion. Focusing on letter sounds was a great way to begin our learning project. This month we will be focusing on our science and math projects by creating volcanoes and learning about ways to measure a dinosaur. Room 5 is roaring into their summer and we are excited to see what they will learn next.

Are children learning through water play?

Katie's Kids love when summer comes around and they are able to enjoy time in the water feature. This is the highlight of their summer activities and the most enjoyable time while here at KKLC. However, did you know children learn through water play too!! Yes, according to research Water Days provides opportunities for children to experiment with math and science concepts, strengthen their physical skills, advance their social and emotional skills, and enhance language development (Crosser, 1994; Hendrick, 1996). How exciting it is to know that even while enjoying a nice run in the sun children are still learning and growing.
