WHO?

The Festival is produced by the Clayton NY Chamber of Commerce. This Festival was first introduced in 2005 and has grown tremendously every year to a sold out show.

WHAT?

The show consists of exhibitors representing an array of products made in New York. Everyone who manufactures and markets a food or wine product grown or processed for final sale within New York State is invited to exhibit.

WHERE?

The Village of Clayton is located 100 miles north of Syracuse, in New York's popular 1000 Islands tourism region. There is a draw of nearly 2,000,000 people within a 125 mile radius in both the U.S. and Canada.

A modern facility with abundant parking, and a proven ability to draw crowds from across NYS and the Canadian border. Clayton's moderately priced accommodations and restaurants, and this event's extensive media advertising program, make this event one that exhibitors will find unsurpassed as both exhibitor friendly and a productive venue.
