MASQUERADE THEATRE RECEIVES SPARK GOOD LOCAL GRANT FROM UNION CITY WALMART

UNION CITY, Tenn. — The Masquerade Theatre is proud to announce it has received a Spark Good Local Grant from the Union City Walmart Supercenter to support the organization's ongoing efforts to renovate the historic Capitol Theatre into a state-of-the-art performing arts center serving Northwest Tennessee.

The grant represents an important investment in the future of the arts and the continued revitalization of downtown Union City. Funding from the Spark Good program will help support renovation efforts, community programming, educational opportunities, and live productions that make the performing arts accessible and engaging for audiences of all ages.

"This grant is more than financial support — it's an investment in the future of our community," said Allison Butner, president of The Masquerade Theatre. "We are incredibly grateful to Walmart in Union City for believing in our vision for the Capitol Theatre and for supporting the arts in Northwest Tennessee. This project is about creating a place where people can gather, connect, and experience the power of live theatre for generations to come."

The Capitol Theatre renovation project aims to transform the historic venue into a modern performing arts destination while preserving the character and history of one of Union City's treasured landmarks. Once completed, the space will serve as a hub for live theatre, music, educational programming, special events, and community engagement throughout the region.

For years, The Masquerade Theatre has brought together local performers, volunteers, and audiences through productions and events that celebrate creativity, storytelling, and community spirit. The organization continues to expand opportunities for artistic expression and cultural enrichment across Northwest Tennessee.

The Masquerade Theatre extends its sincere appreciation to Walmart and the Spark Good program for supporting local nonprofits and helping strengthen communities through meaningful partnerships and investment.
