

Introduction

The SOGC places the utmost importance on improving intrapartum care, from the process to its outcomes. One way to achieve that objective is through offering continuing education programs like the ALARM course

ALARM (Advances in Labour and Risk Management) was developed by obstetricians/gynecologists, family physicians, midwives and nurses, who jointly continue to maintain and teach the course. Backed by the SOGC, the ALARM course arose out of our work to improve the care provided to women, babies, and families during pregnancy, labour, and postpartum.

- The content of the course is evidence-based and incorporates the Canadian practice guidelines, so participants who complete the course gain an understanding of the latest best practices for providing care.
- The ALARM course objective is to evaluate, update and maintain the competence of obstetricians/gynecologists, family physicians, midwives and nurses.
- This two-day course offers case-based and hands-on workshops.
- This course is not intended to certify attendees in any procedural skills. It provides education and hands-on experience, but this is not a substitute for clinical exposure and mentorship.

The ALARM certificate will be awarded only to those who pass the written examination and who attend the course in its entirety.

Registration includes:

- Improved format: Clinical skills and multi-case scenario workshops
- Access to the online portal, online exam, and ALARM manual
