

TALKS

THINK+change TALKS are provocative, in-person or video shorts on topics of interest to, or emerging issues for, people with IDD and those who care for and work with them.

“...Doing these things for people with physical disabilities is quite simple compared to ongoing training for people with neurological disabilities...”

-Sam

“...Post-secondary schools don't support students with high functioning autism...”

-Sam

Meet Sam...

Sam has autism spectrum disorder (ASD) and wants to be successful in college. Listen to him talk about what he and other students with autism need from the higher education system to do that.

THINK+change's first TALK series on higher education and students with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) debuts next month in honor of Developmental Disabilities Awareness Month.

Check your inbox to view this series next month.

Conversation Series with...

Sam Jarris

a higher education student with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD)

Your Opportunity

Sponsor a 2018 TALK and help facilitate additional provocative conversations on the special education pipeline to prison, and living with disability.

Contact Jean – jsolis@thearcofaurora.org or 720.213.1420.

TALKS, which will include sponsor logos, will be widely distributed.

