

Justin Lumadue

Executive Director, Congressional and Public Affairs
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Justin Lumadue is an executive director in the Congressional and Public Affairs Division at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. He serves as the Chamber's chief lobbyist on financial services, trade, and travel and tourism.

In addition, Lumadue frequently speaks to business leaders, local chambers of commerce, other trade associations, and member companies to educate them on the Chamber's priorities and current legislative outlook.

Most recently, Lumadue played a leading role in the successful campaigns to reauthorize the Terrorism Risk Insurance Program and the Export-Import Bank of the United States.

Lumadue was previously senior manager for policy and congressional communications at the Chamber. He coordinated overall communications with Capitol Hill on a wide variety of issues impacting the business community, including trade, energy, labor, and taxes.

A native of Pennsylvania, Lumadue received his B.A. in political science from Pennsylvania State University in 2005.
