

Introduction

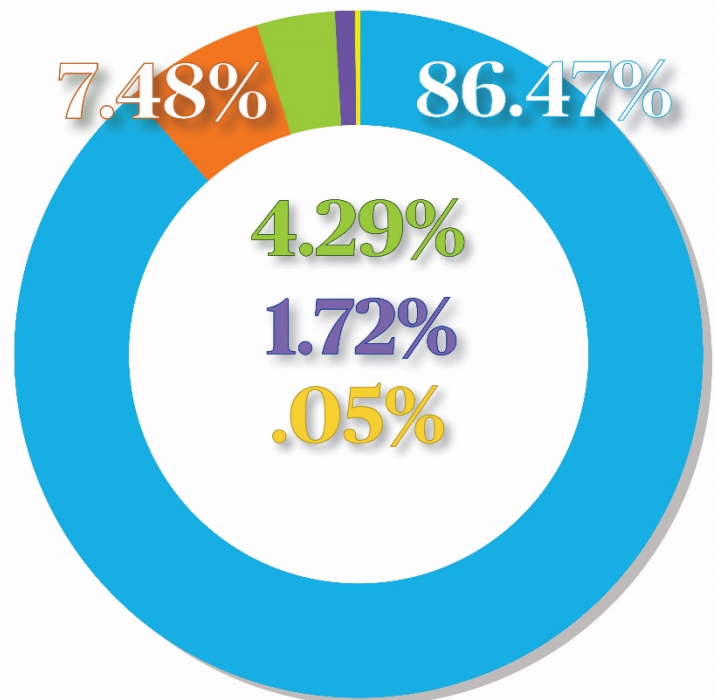

Wild Spaces and Public Places' half-cent sales tax is used to acquire and improve environmentally sensitive lands and to create, improve and maintain parks and recreational facilities throughout Alachua County.

The eight-year sales tax was approved by Alachua County voters in 2016 and is being collected from January 1, 2017 through December 31, 2024.

This report is a summary of the City of Gainesville's portion of the Wild Spaces & Public Places program during fiscal year 2020. It's a snapshot of the city's expenditures along with highlights of a few of the transformative projects underway during the year.

Making a Local Impact

Vendors utilized in FY 2020

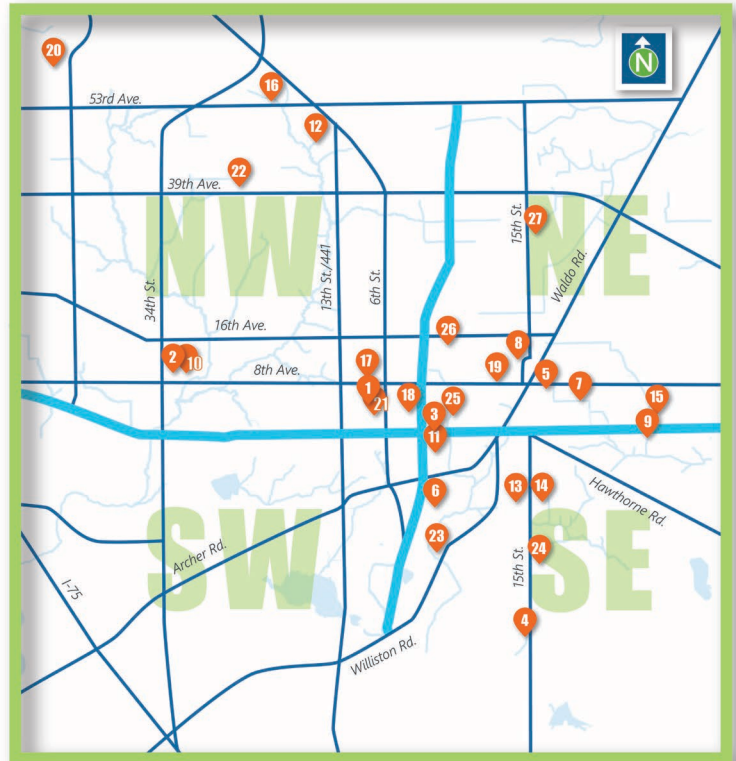

During this difficult year, our team focused on doing everything we could to support the local economy.

- The Wild Spaces & Public Places program is proud to have kept over 75% of WSPP expenditures local.
 - 48 local vendors were hired directly for Wild Spaces projects. These businesses are located within Alachua, Bradford, Columbia, Gilchrist, Levy, Putnam or Union County.
- Over 60% of the vendors hired were small businesses.
 - 53 small businesses were hired on Wild Spaces & Public Places projects during the past fiscal year. A small business, by definition, has less than 50 employees and less than $5 million dollars in annual revenue.
- 14 of the businesses hired were registered as diverse.
 - at least 51% of the company is owned by a woman, service-disabled veteran or person with a diverse background.

Project Locations, Fiscal Year 2020

For the projects in progress during the fiscal year 2020 we took an abundance of care —following CDC guidelines – to allow transformative projects to continue moving forward safely. The vendors we worked with did a tremendous job adapting and overcoming every obstacle thrown at them.

Wild Spaces & Public Places completed nearly $7 million dollars' worth of influential projects. To name just a few of the projects worked on in fiscal year 2020...

- The Clarence R. Kelly Community Center and Park project underwent the community engagement, design, and permitting and procurement processes. Work includes demolition of the existing building and construction of a 3,800 square foot space. The outdoor space will include a new playground, fitness equipment, community garden and a lighted basketball court.

- The Hippodrome Theatre received much needed improvements including renovations to the first and second floor lobbies, accessibility improvements, exterior and interior lighting, speaker system and air conditioning upgrades.
- The circa 1890 farm house at Hogtown Creek Headwaters Nature Park underwent a major renovation and is currently being developed into a nature center for the Gainesville community.
- The new Northside Park was completed during the fiscal year. Located next to the Senior Recreation Center, improvements include 40 new parking spaces and construction of a multi-generational play area designed to provide activities for all ages.
- Formerly named Kiwanis Girl Scout Park, Oakview Park saw major improvements. The nearly 64-year-old building received extensive renovations and now provides space for youth programming. The outdoor space received a new modern playground, new plants, removal of invasive species and added parking.
