

My name is Rachel Daso and just this past month I graduated from Fordham University as co-valedictorian of my class. I received a degree in Chemistry, with a Minor in Philosophy, and am thankful for the opportunities I had to not only learn about my interests in STEM but to dive into bioethical issues in the field of medicine. I am also thankful that I was able to explore New York City during my time at Fordham and was able to play in several ensembles and jazz groups during my time there. After a much-needed summer of rest, I cannot wait to continue my education at Northwestern University in the fall where I will be pursuing a PhD in biomedical engineering.

In the fall, she will attend the honors college at the University of Pittsburgh (PITT) where she will major in Gender, Sexuality and Women's Studies, with a minor/focus on pre-Law. Katrina loves to sing, and has shared this gift in years prior at church and with the Oberlin Choristers choirs (Una Voce and the touring ensemble). She was also a member of her high school choirs, including Chromatix, an a cappella group. At RRHS, Katrina was also a member of the JV Golf team, the Varsity Fencing team, Science Olympiad, Model UN and Girl Scouts. Katrina was active in youth group, mission trips and volunteer efforts at her previous church and chose to follow Rachel Burns (a friend and mentor) to LCC. Her most memorable events at LCC were participating in the rehearsals for Seussical with her sister and sleeping outside in a cardboard box to bring awareness to homelessness.

Jack Sheldon is graduating from Lakewood High School on May 28, 2021. In addition to being a LHS grad, he successfully completed his Career Passport in Media Art and Design through the West Shore Career-Technical District. Jack continues to personally hone his skills at video and audio editing at home as he teaches himself new software and creates fantastic videos! This summer he will be participating in a five-week work training program through OOD (Opportunities for Ohioans with Disabilities) learning the internal components of a computer and how to repair, refurbish, and prepare them for resale through Goodwill. He hopes to expand on that training for further employment as he narrows down his field of interest for long-term working and education plans. Jack continues to advocate for the inclusion and respect of all people via online media platforms with his growing virtual social circle of like-minded individuals and adult autistics.

Gabby Toms was born to draw. For probably 16 of their 18 years, Gabby has put crayon, pencil, marker, ink, paint, and pixels to work creating art. Not only will Gabby graduate from Lakewood High School as a member of the National Honor Society (and a 4.0+ GPA), they are also in the National Technical Honor Society for their work in media arts. As an artist, Gabby has received numerous awards and will begin classes at the Savannah College of Art and Design (SCAD) in the fall to become an animator and storyboard artist. A member of the Lakewood Barnstormers and numerous LCC musicals, Gabby has a true passion for performing and stage work, including running the soundboard during LCC services. Above all, Gabby is curious and caring. They see life through the eyes of an artist, and that makes the world a much better place to be in.

Max Toms-Snodgrass has always been the quiet kid with a kind heart. When teachers would say they loved having Max in class, they meant it. Max began to map out his future career when he took part in Cisco Networking program through the West Shore Career-Tech District at Lakewood High School. After graduating with honors and a member of the National Technical Honors Society, Max studied in the Information Technology Systems Program, part of Ohio University's Scripps School of Communications. That led to a remote summer internship with KeyBank in 2020, and a job offer upon graduation in 2021. Max will start full-time at KeyBank this summer. He is now living in a Lakewood apartment close enough he can walk to his parent's house to hang out.

Audrey Warren wraps up this very unconventional senior year at Lakewood High School where she has been an active participant in Chamber and Symphonic Choirs, Wind Ensemble, Barnstormers Drama Club and Field Commander of the Lakewood Ranger Marching Band.
